Q: Does your tile have a difference between the display photo and the real product when I receive it?

A: All products are taken in kind to try to show the color and texture of the product, but the stone mosaic is natural, and each piece may be different in color and texture, and due to the shooting angle, lighting, and other reasons, there may be a color difference between the real product you receive and the display picture, please refer to the real thing. If you have stricter requirements on color or style, we suggest you buy a small sample first.
